

THE PEOPLE'S INQUIRY: EXPLORING THE CASE FOR AN INDEPENDENT AND PEACEFUL AUSTRALIA

Assoc Professor Jeannie Rea Unions and Workers' Rights Panel Leader

"Australian trade unions have a proud history of acting for peace, justice and independence within Australia and internationally, acting in solidarity with labour and peoples' movements. History has taught us that when workers act together we have the power to make change in our workplaces and beyond - through industrial and political action.

I encourage contributions looking at how an independent foreign policy can contribute in transitioning to a better world, of decent work and justice for all – and even what that world could look like.

Do have your say and propose ways of making change."
