The prospect of War with China is a terrifying thought. Why politicians, for crass motives, might even contemplate such horrendous actions suggest they are mindless morons. Our planet is already in a state of critical disrepair, with the "future" for posterity in doubt. Already armies and the military are making major incursions by contributing to global warming, manufacturing weapons of mass destruction, using them to unleash destruction on, usually defenceless, peoples and engaging in (joke, not really!) "peace-time" manoeuvres, and exercises, to ensure materiel interoperability! Obviously those who contemplate conflagration, conveniently, suffer amnesia or are so besotted by the blandishments of the merchants of death, as to 'forget' the death, destruction and mayhem wrought by war and the FACT there are NO winners.
