

Michele Munn

I have been watching many of the discussions this week in the Raising Peace Festival and I feel inspired by so many informed and ethical people. So I just want to say I support a government that will disarm the country and welcome asylum seekers and provide comprehensive education for everyone. And a government that shows the courage to make steps to repair our climate and ecosystem, and also makes our First Nations people the centre of those efforts.